LANGUAGE WORK (TRY TO PAY ATTENTION TO THESE ADVICE EXPRESSIONS COMMONLY USED IN ENGLISH)

- You can use the modal verb should:
 - 1. Your navigation system should be based on text links.
- You can use an imperative:
 - 2. Avoid frames wherever possible.
 - 3. Don't change the location of your navigation elements.
- Note that avoid is followed by the -ing form.
- For example:

CONTINUED

- 4. Avoid using frames.
- Had better is for advice which is close to a warning. It indicates something unpleasant will happen if the advice is not taken:
- 5. If you're committed to using frames on your site, you'd better commit yourself to some extra work too.
- Other ways to give advice are:
- 6. I Recommend Jennifer Fleming's WebNavigation.
- 7. It's a good idea to visit a few larger sites.
- To make advice more persuasive, you can add the reason for your advice. For example:
- It's a good idea to visit a few larger sites [advice] to get some ideas on designing an effective site map [reason].

The background is a dark blue gradient. In the four corners, there are decorative white line-art patterns resembling circuit boards or neural networks, with lines and small circles connecting them.
